2017 Municipal Population Estimates Released!

On May 24, 2018, the US Census Bureau released the 2017 population estimates for sub-county geographies, including cities, boroughs and townships. These estimates are the most accurate in the intervening years between decennial censuses.

York County's total population in 2017 is 446,078. This is an increase of 2.5% since 2010. Looking at the municipal projections, York County's most populous municipality is York City, with 44,132 residents. Our smallest borough remains Yorkana Borough, with 228 residents.

Where have the greatest changes occurred?

Interestingly, the municipalities with the highest percent change in population since 2010 are Windsor Borough (+11.8%), Springfield Township (+11.2%) and Stewartstown Borough (+10.3%). The municipalities with the highest numerical change are Penn, Fairview, Conewago, and York Townships. Each had population increases greater than 700 since 2010. Dallastown Borough had the greatest loss in population of our municipalities with a decrease of 226 (-5.6%). The 2017 municipal population estimates for York County are on the following pages.

Around the State

In a Research Brief published by the PA State Data Center, since 2010, 75 boroughs in PA have lost population since 2010. One-third of townships have had population increases during the same period. To read the research brief in its entirety, please use the following link:
